BRYANT'S BUSINESS

Bryant Awarded $2 Million for Economic Revitalization

At a news conference on campus held jointly with Senator John Chafee and Congressman Ron Machtley, President Trueheart announced Bryant College will receive $2 million from the Federal government. The money which is part of a defense appropriations bill, will launch the Center for International Business and Economic Development.

The center will unify Bryant's five existing business and economic development programs, including: The Center for Management Development (CMD), the Small Business Development Center (SBDC); the RI Export Assistance Center (RIEAC), the Institute for Family Enterprise (IFE), and the World Trade Center RI (WTCRI).

"We envision that The Center for International Business will be an important player in regional economic development," said President Trueheart. "The center will be the model for how higher education, government and the business community can fashion creative partnerships that leverage their combined resources: expertise, ideas and people."

The center will assist defense-based industries in exploring alternative applications and markets for their technologies and products and will offer retraining opportunities at all levels.

President Trueheart, Senator Chafee, Rep. Machtley, and Chairman Parkos announce the $2 Million grant.

Spain in Smithfield: Winter Session '93

Bryant begins its faculty exchange with the University of Leon in Spain when Dr. Manuel Broncano, a specialist in American studies, comes to Bryant for Winter Session '93. The exchange program with Leon began when Prof. Joseph Urgo taught American literature and culture earlier this year as a Fulbright Lecturer.

Dr. Broncano's course, "From Frontiersmen to Imperial Army: The Case of Spain and the United States," is one of 22 courses offered by the Part-Times Studies Office. To be taught entirely in English, with optional readings in Spanish, the class will study literary depictions of the frontier in the United States and Spain, including captivity tales, diaries, and novels.

Other Winter Session courses include: Accounting Theory; Written Communications for Business; Public Speaking; Micro and Macroeconomic Principles; Money and Banking; and The Management Gurus: Studies in Leading-Edge Management Theory.

Registration starts Nov. 30; classes Jan. 4 and ends Jan. 22. For more information on Winter Session courses, contact the Part-Time Studies Office at ext. 6210.

Give to Students through Campus Campaign

by Nancy Haverstock, Director of the Annual Fund

"Giving to the Students" is the theme of this year's campus fund-raising campaign. Employee gifts will be used for scholarships for needy students, although donors can still make their gifts unrestricted if they wish.

Working at Bryant lets each of us participate in the education and personal development of young people, regardless of whether our job is front line or behind the scenes. By making a gift to the campus campaign, we can further contribute to the students by helping ensure that they can get a Bryant education.

The Campus Campaign Scholarship Fund has been established to provide students with emergency financial aid. This expendable fund will provide critical financial aid to deserving students who might otherwise have to leave the College because of inadequate funds.

Employees can also designate their gifts toward The Dr. Virginia Floyd Memorial Fund. Created in memory of a distinguished former faculty member, proceeds from this fund are used to acquire literature and art for the Hodgson Memorial Library.

The Annual Unrestricted Fund monies are used wherever critical funding is needed. These dollars support financial aid, academic programs, student services, library materials, and general operating costs.

Other options for designating your gift are available. Call me or Maureen Sullivan at ext. 6252 for ideas.

Regardless of which designation you choose, consider the Bryant students when thinking about your gift to the Campus Campaign. Be as generous as you can when a fellow employee asks you for a gift. Regardless of how much each of us can give, let's all show our support of the students. Last year's participation rate of 83 percent was outstanding. Let's go for 100!

Let it Snow, Let it Snow, Let it Snow

It's getting to be that time of year when snow can fall at any time. And Bryant is ready.

To make things easy Bryant has a cancellation procedure. It includes announcements on Rhode Island and Massachusetts radio and TV stations and a message on the College's emergency telephone number (232-6002).

When the time comes to cancel classes, close offices, or delay the day's normal events, the Office of College Relations will notify broadcasters by 6:30 a.m.

So if there is any doubt about the weather, listen to your favorite station first. If you miss the announcement, then call the emergency number for a recorded message. And please, only use the emergency number as a backup.
